SENTOSA GOLF CLUB

Home to two of the region's most exclusive and challenging golf courses.

Sentosa Golf Club is enjoyed by more than 1,500 members and is open to the public all year round. Since 2005, world-class golf professionals from across the world have descended upon our championship courses to battle it out for the SMBC Singapore Open and HSBC Women's World Championship.

As well as its two championship courses, the club also boasts three incredible restaurants and a large number of function rooms, including the Tanjong Room and Sentosa Pavilion that are available for weddings and corporate meetings throughout the year.

It is the world's first ever golf club to join the UN's Sports for Climate Action initiative, which looks to guide sports organisations on a path to achieving the global climate goals set out in the Paris Agreement.

In April 2021, the Club also became the world's first golf club to commit to achieving carbon neutrality by 2022.

The club has embarked on a partnership with international golf sustainability non-profit, GEO Foundation, that will see their industry leading OnCourse® program and GEO Certified® label integrated with Sentosa's 'green culture' to pioneer new innovative practices that can inspire others to lower their carbon footprint.

Sentosa Island LOCATION

Sentosa Golf Club
27 Bukit Manis Road
Singapore 099892

Sentosa Island sits just off the southern coast of mainland Singapore.

Steeped in history, and more recently innovation, Sentosa Golf Club lies at the heart of the island, and is home to The Serapong and The Tanjong, two of the region's finest golf courses.

THE SERAPONG

Singapore's best golf course is currently placed 59th in Golf Digest's Top 100 of the World's Greatest Courses 2020-2021.

Opened in 1982, the course was originally designed by Ronald Fream, but in 2007 underwent a $12 million revamp under the direction of the Gene Bates Golf Design Group.

It has since undergone a further set of renovations in 2020, led by Andrew Johnston, the club's General Manager and Director of Agronomy.

The works included resizing and re-lasering all the tee boxes to reinstate a tabletop flat finish, as well as re-lining all the bunkers with new white sand to improve consistency and playability. The greens also received special attention with upgrades being made to the soil profile to boost their performance and allow The Serapong to continue competing alongside the world's finest courses.

The Serapong's trademark mounds, contours and breath-taking surroundings make for a golfing experience like no other.

THE TANJONG

The Tanjong is one of the world's most exciting golf course projects.

Host venue to the HSBC Women's World Championship, the course has already received plaudits from golfing influencers worldwide.

The Tanjong is dramatically set against the Singapore Straits with views of metropolitan Singapore all around. Inspired by iconic sand belt golfing experiences, it asserts a unique personality with large bunkers rarely seen in Asia, offering players the challenge of playing on a course inspired by the style of renowned golf course architect, Alistair MacKenzie.

Having recently been redesigned by Andrew Johnston and Matt Swanson in 2016, the course underwent a few minor improvements in 2021 with additional changes being made to three of the holes.

A brand-new green has been developed on the 3rd hole, as well as a new small section added to the 4th green. The tee complex on the 5th hole has been modified to elevate the playing strategy of the hole. These enhancements provide added excitement and showcase greater viewing, with a more precise strategy needed.

WORLD CLASS EVENTS

Sentosa Golf Club has a proud record of hosting Asia's most prestigious male and female tournaments, including the Singapore Open (since 2005, formerly Barclays and currently SMBC Singapore Open), HSBC Women's World Championship (since 2013), Asia-Pacific Amateur Championship (2018) and Women's Amateur Asia-Pacific (2019)
